ABOUT US

Since 1911, the Junior League of San Francisco (JLSF) has been deeply immersed in our City - not only training hundreds of women leaders each year, but also helping to bring change on the important issues of the day.

The JLSF is one of the largest and oldest affiliates among the 294 Junior Leagues throughout the U.S., Canada, Mexico, and the U.K. Our volunteers are women of vision and passion who've been making a powerful difference in Bay Area communities for over 100 years.

Since the JLSF was founded, our volunteers have raised more than $24 million and contributed over 6 million volunteer hours.

COMMUNITY IMPACT

As a problem surfaces within the community, the JLSF is frequently the first organization to recognize and address the issue, providing volunteer energy, financial assistance, and public support. Often in collaboration with other community groups and/or the public sector, the JLSF designs and launches a program, then works to achieve community impact and measurable results.

OUR 2023 LEAGUE HONOREE JANE INCH

Jane Inch has been a leader in community building and nonprofit leadership for over 30 years. A native of Northern California and graduate of UC Berkeley, Jane joined the Junior League of San Francisco in 1993 beginning her foray into fundraising. As an Active Member, she held numerous leadership positions and served as Chair of the 75th Annual JLSF Fashion Show in 2001. The Junior League became the launching pad for philanthropic work that has spanned 3 decades and benefited the San Francisco Opera Guild, American Heart Association, the Cancer League, the Bay Area Arthritis Foundation, the Bay Area Lyme Foundation, and Piedmont Schools, among many others. She currently serves on the board of Jane Seymour's Open Hearts Foundation, as well as the Napa Valley "Broadway and Vine" series.

Professionally, Jane has served as a Personal Development Coach, inspiring women to pursue their higher callings and fulfill their true potential. The intersection of her passion for mentorship and her dedication to community building has brought her back, full circle, to re-engage with her roots at the Junior League, helping to guide the new generation of leaders as they work to make a difference.
